Public Listening Sessions

open to the public and news media

The Concord Police Department wants to hear your perspectives, concerns, and suggestions on various policies and procedures that are under review or recently have changed.

During the listening session, Chief Gary Gacek and staff will share information about the department's proposed Body Worn Camera program, its in-car camera program, and other important policy changes that have been made in the last six months to include: Use of Force, Vehicle Pursuits, Citizen Complaints, the Public's Recording of Police Activities, and more.

"Public safety cannot be achieved in a vacuum. It requires active participation from the community and a commitment from all levels of our organization. An important aspect of community policing is 'procedural justice.' The public is more trusting of law enforcement when it believes our practices are procedurally and constitutionally just; and, is a more engaged partner when given a role in guiding policy decisions. The listening sessions are a great opportunity for the police and community to collaborate on our shared future." – Chief Gary Gacek –

You are welcome to participate in this important, interactive community event.
